

Season's greetings from
AMIT SRIVATSA

HAPPY NEW YEAR

We stand here,
bidding adieu to 2016, and wait, as

2017

dawns on us.

I do not know what the new year will bring.
I do not have the power to see the future, nor
to prevent the inevitable.

What I do have is a will to PERSIST. And that's what I will wish on you.

For the days to come are not for the meek. The future belongs to those who dare, those who persist. THOSE WHO SURVIVE.

They belong to YOU. And to ME.

So for 2017, I will not pray for luxuries and comfort, nor for success to just fall in your lap. I will pray, instead,
for strength and courage; for fortitude, perseverance, patience,
and the WILL to JUST BE.

And I hope that in the coming year you are surrounded
not by events and gossips,
but by IDEAS.

Because ideas are bulletproof. IDEAS DON'T DIE.
