Dear Hiring Manager

Wish you a very good day!
I'm a front-end developer based in Lagos, Nigeria, and I create fun, innovative, accessible, and fast websites. I try to leave every bit of code I touch more readable, modular, performance and accessible than I found it. I am a young, promising and hardworking graduate with a background in Computer -Engineering.

As a smart, meticulous and hands-on individual, I have worked in the team of software engineers during youth service where I posses skills in Front- End Web Development.

I have 2 years work experiences in software development. Most important is the front-end engineer with Cotta & Cush Limited, where I worked with the senior Front End Engineers. I acquired knowledge on various software application processes such as agile methodology. I was attached to a senior front-end design engineer with whom I worked with on front-end web projects and implemented web page designs using HTML, CSS and JavaScript, I worked on developing prototypes and high quality mockups for projects. My ability to work as a team player and meet deadlines contributed to my success.

Beyond front-end coding chops, I'm also passionate about writing and sharing what I've learned both with my teammates and the broader web community. I really value the ability to not only perform web development work but also help others improve their craft, because I've gained so much from others sharing their skills and knowledge.

Among all these strengths, on a team, I tend to help bring out a clearer sense of purpose and encourage clearer communication, resulting in better team results and a higher sense of satisfaction for all involved.

Let's talk about how I could put my eye for detail, practice of web standards and communication skills to work. Thanks for your consideration.
